Gas Explosion Kills Three In Frankfort, Ill. Coal Mine

Accumulated Gas Given As Reason For Latest Blast

Eighty Workers Leave Pits Minutes Before Gas Explodes In Air Shaft

SECOND ACCIDENT IN LESS THAN MONTH

Dead And Injured Were Only Ones At Work In World's Largest Shaft Mine

By FLOYD SMITH
U. S. Staff Correspondent
WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Aug. 15.—A gas accumulation was blamed today for an explosion which killed three men in the 600-foot deep Orient coal mine, No. 2 at West Frankfort.

The blast the second at West Frankfort in less than a month, injured two other miners. Their condition was not serious.

Approximately 80 other workers escaped injury. Most of them had left the pit several minutes before the explosion at 9 p.m. (CDT) last night.

Those killed were:

Charles H. Clark, a driller; Walter Clements, Jr., and George L. Filkins, cutting machine operator, all of West Frankfort.

The injured were William A. Blair and Mike Stinkiewicz, both of Bennington. They suffered minor burns and bruises and were permitted to go to their homes after emergency treatment at the United Mine Workers' hospital in West Frankfort.

The dead and injured men were the only employees working in the explosion area which was centered in the 23rd west cross-cut. This area is about three miles from the mouth of the mine.

Cleaning Shaft

The men were cleaning an air shaft to the mine when the explosion occurred. Veteran miners said West Frankfort police said the cause was an accumulation of gas, but said they did not know what set it off.

Blair said:

"There was a sudden flash. Mike and I were knocked down by the

Pa Newc Observes

Heard at the corner of Washington and Mercer street "It would be a good idea if the sweater came along and cleaned up."

Ellis Kegariss of Pulaski township reports a yield of 50 bushels of wheat threshed off one acre on his farm. It's a record yield and his best in 12 years' threshing.

Indications that communities north of here had a good rain sometime yesterday was reflected in the stage of the Shenango river, which rose from 4.8 feet yesterday morning to 5.6 feet this morning.

Pa Newc is beginning to wonder! Of all people in the world to complain of the heat, it shouldn't be the two ice-men who drive the ice truck around town, but they are. And no one can convince them that they are lucky!

Paul Armstrong, on the farm of Dave E. Johns, R. D. 5, reports to Pa Newc that a large quantity of ripe apples have fallen to the ground, and cannot be used. He added that if any small New Castle boys should happen to be hungry for apples, they could appear that hunger by appearing with a basket and picking the apples off the ground. The farm is located about a mile and a half from the city on the Eastbrook road.

Two Arabs were killed and a number were injured in a renewal of the "no man's land" fights between the all Jewish City of Tel Aviv and Haifa.

An official government announcement said four Arabs were found dead of gunshot wounds in the yard house of an orange grove at Tel Litwinsky, six miles from Tel Aviv.

A painted sign near the bodies read:

One Jew was shot to death at the Kfar Saba Zionist colony. The body of a second Jew, also killed by gunfire, was discovered at Iizak Ben, a short distance north of the all Jewish city.

The Arab victims were believed to have been tracked down and "executed" by Haganah for allegedly taking part in the attack on the Hawaii cafe near Tel Aviv Sunday night.

Four Jews were killed and 10 wounded when unidentified Arabs bombed and machine gunned the cafe. Haganah, defense arm of the Jewish agency, pledged that those responsible would be punished.

Heavy police details and British troops in full battle kit took up strategic positions in Tel Aviv to prevent mass Jewish-Arab outbreaks during the funeral of four Jews killed in yesterday's fighting.

FREEDOM COMES TO INDIA

In the Valhalla of the English "greats" today there must be a considerable stir. The spirits of Clive, of Hastings, of Cornwallis and Curzon and Kipling surely must be looking with amazement at the scene in India. For Freedom comes to India today.

Since the middle eighteenth century India has been ruled by the British crown, a land of mystery, of famine, of romance and of degradation and poverty. A land with violent contradictions in religious beliefs that have led to bloodshed many times.

But today the British lion relinquishes his hold upon India and the fate of the millions of people in that country lies within their own hands.

What they will do with their new found freedom is a question. To the people of the hills it probably will make but small difference for they have used to oppression by the maharajahs and princes.

In the cities, political parties will probably spring up like mushrooms and it will be strange if for the next ten years India is not a battle ground for varying political philosophies.

India has natural resources and man power. But with all the natural resources famine has stalled there year after year. The British have been blamed for much of India's misery and perhaps part of the blame is justified. But from today on India is the captain of its own fate.

In the interest of world peace and tranquillity we hope this newest experiment in human freedom is a success.

FALSETTO THUNDER

In the surcharged atmosphere of international tension, the London times recently held back its thunder to publish a light little editorial charging that the English language is unfair to the animal kingdom. With thunder over Europe, mind at the end of its tether, and doom lurking in the innocent atom, the Times evidently feels that mankind might as well die laughing.

If you were a cat, the Times thinks, you wouldn't need to be told that you could look at a king, but it might make you feel uncomfortable to hear so many people talking of how you would behave on hot bricks. If you were a wild horse, it might drive you straight to a psychiatrist to hear constant allusions to the things you couldn't tear apart.

If you were a bull, your self-confidence might whether away under constant comment on your behavior in a hypothetical china shop. If you plumed yourself on being an ostrich, you'd surely be distressed to realize that people always thought of you in a certain undignified posture.

Wolves may not like being kept from the door and being depicted as wearing sheep's clothing. No bee is busy enough to be safe from gossip about what he was doing in somebody's bonnet. The goose may well wonder at all the slurs directed at people with sense enough not to say "Bo" to him.

Fishes have to be cold-blooded to endure all the dreadful allusions to their being out of water. Fleas must suffer to hear a fleabite constantly disparaged. If you were a bear, you wouldn't like being referred to as a sore-head. If you were a snake, you would feel you had a perfect right to be in the grass.

And if you were the London Times, you might occasionally get tired of being called "The thundered."

ECONOMY CONGRESS

No less a personage than Rep. Clarence Cannon, the Democratic expert on appropriations, concedes that the 80th Congress made the biggest cut in peacetime expenses in a quarter of a century. Representative Cannon admits the Republican majority whacked off $2,207,000, a cut of 6 per cent when applied to President Truman's budget request of $37,500,000,000.*

Actually the reduction may be more than Mr. Cannon's grudging figures. Rep. John Taber, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, says that the final savings will amount to at least 7½ per cent, which Truman did not include when he made up his budget. The last session of Congress fulfilled the G. O. P. pledge to economize, despite strenuous administration resistance. Overburdened taxpayers, thankful for this relief, can only regret that the President spiked the Republican effort to reduce taxes.

The man at the next desk is beginning to wonder if that war contracts probe isn't going to last longer than the war.

One thousand Missouri mules are being shipped to Greece—just as though that unhappy country doesn't have enough stubborn problems to solve.

Beards may become fashionable again—according to a magazine article. What a subject to bring up in weather like this!

Scientists say there'll be another ice age. What we need at this particular perspiring moment is a sample of same.

'COUPLE OF DRUNK MARINES'

Oh! where would I be when my frost was dry?
Oh! where would I be when the bullets fly?
Oh! where would I be when I come to die?

Why somewhere anigh my chum.
If 'ees liquor, 'ell give me some;
If I'm dyin', 'ell 'old my 'and;
And 'ell write 'em 'ome when I'm dead.

Gawd, send us a trusty chum!

Kipling knew in India, two English soldiers, Mulvaney and Otherwise—an Irishman and a Cockney, they were; Mulvaney with all the wit of the Irishman.

I know a chap who was a newspaperman in the East, as was Kipling. He became so sick that he was told that the only place he could live was on the Pacific Coast, so he hikes out to Southern California and acquires, of course, a newspaper—a weekly—in a growing town. The town has grown considerably since his advent and so successfully did he conduct this newspaper and become so well thought of in the community, that they elected him Justice of the Peace, which in Southern California is a little more than equivalent to electing a man as Alderman in New Castle. This town is close to a great Marine training camp, known as Camp Pendleton, the largest training camp in the United States.

To know what this man's newspaper training has done for him, I quote the following which recently appeared in his newspaper:

"Meandering out of a picture the other night and turning the corner, I encountered two Marines leaning against the building.

"They were drenched in moisture—drunk, I might say.

"Hi, Pop," said one of them. "Whaddya you say?"

"Not a word, boy," said I, and started on.

"Just a minute," he said, "You're the first topper that hasn't tried to reform us. Nobody speaks to us hardly unless they stumble over us, then it's only to cuss a couple of drunk Marines."

"Okay," said I. "A couple of drunk Marines, eh? So what?"

"Yeah, Pop, we're drunk, plastered, whoopee! My Buddy, here, is celebrating his mourning, and I'm just helping."

"Mourning? Mourning what?"

"His wife walked out on him. Went off with another man while we were overseas, four years. Two years in the jungles. The rat. He was nuts about her. Talked about her all the time, carried her picture in his breast pocket, bored us stiff telling what a swell dame she was and how they were going to get a farm and have a lot of kids when he got out—if and when."

"Tough riding," said I. "Now what?"

"You tell me," said he. "We're just a couple of country punks off the farm. I'm twenty-three. Bud

INTRODUCING PARENTS

"How should I introduce my boy friend to my parents? To whom should he be introduced first—my father or my mother—and how should the introduction be made?"

Answer: First of all, eliminate the expression "boy friend" and "friend" in introductions. It is not necessary to make any classification in introductions. The use of "my friend" indicates that all others present are not to be included in that category. Introduce him first to your mother thus: "Mother, this is Bill Smith"; if Bill is young and "Mr. Smith" if he is mature. "Dad, this is Bill Smith." Always introduce everyone—girls and boys, women and men—to your mother. Your friends should be introduced to girls and women regardless of their youth. Young men should be introduced to him.

Question: What is proper to do when do not recall having met someone who remembers me? This happened to me recently when I was introduced. I said I did not remember her.

Answer: Be diplomatic, always even if you must tell a little white lie. It is not flattering to be forgotten and to hear the condemning admission before others. People who are social and business successes have so trained themselves that they never forget a face. If your memory is so poor that it cannot carry facial reflections, you must resort to white lies or subterfuge. Never bluntly say: "I don't remember you." Say instead "Oh yes, how do you do." Perhaps that will encourage the forgotten person to give you some clue as to where you met.

Question: When a woman leaves a man who has just been introduced to her, should she say to him: "I am very pleased to have met you," or should she say it?

Answer: Let him say it, for a woman never meets a man. He meets her. If you feel that you must say something, you might venture: "It was nice meeting you."

State Capitol Housing Board Action Slumps Under Gov. Duff

Failure To Appoint New Members, Slash In Funds Hamper Harrisburg Body

OTHER NEWS OF STATE AFFAIRS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 15.—(INS)—The state housing board, spurred into action during the Martin administration, has not been very active since the accession of Gov. James H. Duff. The chief executive failed to reappoint the five board members whose terms expired at the close of the 1947 legislative session or to name successors, leaving the agency without a policy-making body. Lawmakers granted only a third of the $75,000 biennial appropriation the board sought to carry on its work, particularly compilation of a building code. Seventy-five thousand dollars was revitalized. The governor and the legislature turned cold shoulders to the agency's chief legislative recommendation for a state-subsidized housing program.

The board's staff now consists of Executive Director Brenton G. Wallace, Assistant Director Daniel Rogers and a secretary. Board members who terms expired were Searle H. Von Storch, Scranton; Arthur C. Kauffmann, Ardmore; J. E. Burns, Oil City; Owen B. Hannan, Pittsburgh; Ritchie Lawrie, Jr., Harrisburg, and Henry C. Spencer, Carbondale.

O. B. Lippman, chief of the state banking department's small loans division, lost his battle for control of the new bureau supervising the "anti-gyp" automobile finance law. A veteran of more than two decades service on Capitol Hill, Lippman worked with the joint state government commission during its 18 months investigation of financing malpractices and did a little spadework in his own behalf. A capable administrator, Lippman recommended creation of a commission apart from the department to supervise enforcement despite knowledge that Secretary D. Emmett Brumbaugh wanted to keep control. The result was that Brumbaugh named Charles N. Fritz of Philadelphia to head the new bureau. Fritz was credit supervisor manager for the General Motors Acceptance Corporation in Philadelphia.

Announcement of alleged irregularities on the workers' compensation board followed an investigation of several months. Several state police investigators infiltrated the Philadelphia area where the peculations reportedly existed and began putting the puzzle together. The inquiry was carried out with utmost secrecy and was the first of its nature in Governor Duff's regime.

There is one veteran capitol policeman who leaves summer visitors with no doubts concerning the beauty of the spacious rotunda in the main building. The policeman, on duty after regular guides go off duty, tells visitors: "This is the most beautiful rotunda of any capital anywhere." Then he pauses, looks almost belligerently at his listeners and adds firmly: "I know that's a broad statement but I mean anywhere." Visitors appear satisfied to believe him.

Optimists Push
Plans For Derby

At their regular meeting Thursday evening in The Castleton hotel, the Optimist club furthered plans for the big "Orange Crate" derby which will be held in the city on Labor Day.

General Chairman Cal Rasey announced that entries for the event will be closed next week and urged boys to hurry their entry blanks to Pearsall's Sign shop on Falls street or the Commercial Printing on East street.

Prizes, which include a "Whizzer" motor bike for the winner, will be on display at Butz Flower store, Mercer street all next week.

City council has promised to exercise control of the crowds through police patrols. Frank Sargent and the O.C.D. will help run the races, which the local chapter of American Red Cross will maintain stand-by crew of first aid experts. Opti-Mrs. will conduct the refreshment stand aided by members of the "Small Flies" model airplane club.

As they did in 1946, WKST will again broadcast the races.

OPTION SIGNATURES GOOD
UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 15.—(INS)—There'll be local option votes on the liquor question in 17 districts in Fayette county, after all. Judge John S. Morrow, in an opinion handed down Wednesday, held that petitions for the election were legal. Liquor interests in the county had maintained that signatures on many of the petitions were not legal, thus invalidating the petitions, and had sought an injunction to prevent a vote on the question.

Racket Invades Stamp Collecting

Castlewood Church To Picnic Saturday

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15.—(INS)—A big time racket, replete with international intrigue, has developed in the business of supplying postage stamps to collectors.

Even foreign governments, perhaps unwittingly, are in on the big time operations, says Albert S. Kunze, chief of the philatelic section of the Pan-American Union.

Kunze, in Pittsburgh to address a national convention of philatelists, said today:

"This international racketeering in stamps is no small potatoes."

"Some foreign countries have printed special stamps in limited numbers, issued a few of them at home for the sake of authenticity, and then have unloaded all the rest to a single wholesaler in the United States. He sells them slowly, and makes a killing."

"For example, a recent Guatemala issue of series of five Roosevelt memorial stamps, with face value of $2.01, now are being offered in the United States at $16 a set."

The philatelic society will adopt a resolution condemning the racketeering in stamps, says President Donald F. Lybarger.

Speaking Of Old Timers, Here's Some Ordinances

Nowadays one can stop at almost any store and see and purchase the finest of vegetables, but such was not possible years ago. In fact, 89 years ago, or in 1858, they either had to raise 'em or go to the vegetable market on the Diamond if they desired fresh vegetables, according to an ordinance passed by the Town council July 23, 1858 and approved July 29, the same year, according to a record left by John Blair, secretary, according to an ancient ordinance book in the office of City Clerk Jack Fritz.

According to the ancient law, the market was open between 5 a. m. and 8 a. m. twice weekly, Wednesday and Saturday. It was located on the Diamond between what then was known as the Plank road.

The ordinance says that "the plank road shall not be blocked by persons or wagons and kept unobstructed so that wagons and other vehicles may pass and repass without let or hindrance and the said market shall be subject to the same rules and regulations governing the market."

Could Keep Stallions Here

These days one seldom sees a stallion, mule, or horse, in the city. Gasoline vehicles have almost replaced them. Of course, there are a few horses which drag rubbish wagons but for business purposes they have practically become nil. However, in 1863 it was possible to see stallions in the city.

In fact, there is an ordinance adopted by the town council April 24, 1863, according to a record left by Thomas Campbell, president of council, and Nathan Morill, chief burgess, governing stallions.

It says that "hereafter it shall be lawful to keep a stallion in the borough and to let the same produce the least possible noise and disturbance."

It had to be kept in an enclosed building or a yard enclosed by a board fence not less than 12 feet high.

For the privilege of maintaining a stallion in 1863 in the borough a charge of five dollars was made.

False Fire Alarms

After the borough became a city one of the troubles of councilmen were false fire-alarm. However, the select council, of which A. G. McCready was president, and common council, of which Thomas McBride (then mayor) was president, deemed it fitting to do something about false fire-alarm, hence they adopted an ordinance which was approved April 15, 1875.

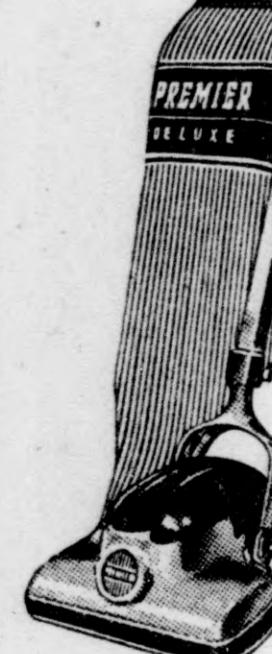

It was to the effect that any person convicted of raising an alarm of false fire, shall upon conviction before the mayor or one of the aldermen, pay a fine of $50, in default of which he was to serve 48 hours in jail.

The ordinance further says that "it shall be the duty of the mayor in every case of such false alarm to make his proclamation, offering a reward of $50. for the arrest of the person or persons wilfully and maliciously making such alarm."

It does not deal with persons running after the fire-horses. Nowadays police follow fire equipment and keep motorists from following in the wake of fire apparatus to prevent interference with their fire-fighting.

Ruhr Housing Lack Affects Coal Miners

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(INS)—United States and British experts working on the problem of increasing Ruhr coal production Thursday set up technical committees to deal with the fundamental problems of miners' housing and equipment.

Creation of these committees was the first concrete step as the U. S. sought to meet the European economic crisis precipitated by Britain's economic collapse.

The housing question was brought up recently in a suppressed report of Robert Moses who made a survey of housing in the Ruhr for the war department.

Moses, a New York City housing and public works expert, said that the matter of housing seriously affects the morale of the Ruhr miners and their production.

The word "clabber" comes from the Irish "Claba", meaning thick mud.

Arab-Jew Border Battle Kills Two

JERUSALEM, Aug. 15.—(INS)—

A "battle" reportedly raged Thursday between Jews and Arabs in the bloody border between Tel Aviv and Jaffa.

Police sources said that "considerable forces" were embroiled in the conflict that has spread through the Saladin club area where at least two Jews have been killed and 16 wounded since dawn.

In an effort to prevent spread of the fighting, security forces barred all traffic into the all-Jewish city Tel Aviv from both Haifa and Jerusalem.

IN THE OPEN

I walked slowly down the woodland roadway, watching a red-tailed hawk which circled in wide arcs above the trees. The only glimpses I had of this hunter were when he soared across the narrow canyon which the road had carved through the timber. From time to time he uttered the peculiar wheezy scream he uses when on the prowl.

I had not traversed a hundred yards when I stumbled onto the quarry which had drawn the red-tail to this spot. Here along this lonely back country road was a filthy dump, smelling to high heaven. The roadway skirts a deep ravine at this point. Callous folk of the neighborhood, too lazy to make proper disposal of their household rubbish, have dumped a mountain of tin cans and other debris into this otherwise beautiful gorge.

Apparently I had come down the road so quietly that the huge congregation of rats living in this noisy mess was completely unaware of my presence at the roadside.

There were so many of the big brown fellows looting about in that pile of rusty cans that the whole dump appeared to be a living, crawling thing. The hawk lost interest when he saw me standing there in the trail, and flew off elsewhere, screaming his annoyance.

I must have watched those rats for twenty minutes, trying to arrive at some idea as to how many were actually visible at one time. I think a conservative figure would be thirty, but there must surely be a colony of several hundred of these dangerous vermin at home there on that foul bank.

The interlude ended suddenly when another car came down through the trees, driving the aviator into one of the bedrooms. From then on for a time it was touch and go as that bat made a complete fool of me. I made a wild swipe and scored a clean miss every time he circled by.

After a few moments of this futile exertion I was wringing wet and the bat seemed as fresh as ever.

Suddenly I thought of the broom and armed myself with that weapon. On the second wallop the broom crashed into the floor and the handle snapped off at the broom head. This was going too far. I maneuvered the broom head something like a tennis racket and finally succeeded in dropping the visitor to the floor. It was only slightly stunned and I chuckled him out-side, little the worse for wear.

The countryside has taken on that late summer down-at-the-heel look.

The first flush of summer bloom is past and now comes seed time and harvest. Some of the fall bloomers are already moving into the picture.

I see the tall Joe-Pye weed, white vervain and the blue lettuce and other tall fellows who have to struggle through and above the summer herbage to find a place in the sun.

On the fences behind the house great clusters of brilliant red berries have been hung out by the purple nightshade. The birds don't seem to bother these delicious looking fruits until mid-Winter, when other fare is not to be had. The graceful clematis known as Virgin's Bower is also blooming along this fence line. Garden phlox has escaped home in great masses along the creek bottoms. Occasionally a pure white bloom punctuates the massed purplish-pink show.

I am somewhat perturbed about a wholesale migration now going on across our side lawn. A colony of the large red ants has packed up and is moving out on us, lock, stock, and barrel. Part of the caravan route is across a cement walk, and we can watch the carriers, totting eggs and other household paraphernalia one way, while empty-handed colleagues hasten back over the creek bottoms. Numerous outsiders are apparently the military, screening the whole movement. I wonder who raised the rent on those ants?

Non-professional school employees of the New Castle district were voted an increase in pay Wednesday night by the board.

After the acceptance of the base salary of the employees it was agreed to raise the pay of the workers five dollars per month and hourly workers 2½ cents per hour.

Survey Reveals Employment Is On Steady Rise

PSES Office Discloses Gradual Upswing In Total Employment Still Evident

A survey of employment in Lawrence County recently completed by the local office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service, shows that a gradual upswing in total employment, which has been in evidence since the first of the year, is still in progress.

A group of 61 of the leading employers, representing a variety of industries, has been used in a series of bi-monthly employment surveys, the first of which was made in November 1946. At that time the total number on the payroll of this group of employers was 19,757. The January survey showed a total of 19,691 employed workers, a decrease of 66. However, five employers in the retail trade had an abnormal payroll of 682 in November in anticipation of Christmas shopping.

This figure shrank to 553 in January, a loss of 129 workers, hence the remaining 56 employers had an actual increase of 63 workers in the November-January period. From January to July the total payroll of the entire group has shown an increase of 668 for the six-month period.

Interesting Observations

An examination of the survey by industrial groups permits some interesting observations. The five employers in the retail trade, for instance, dropped from 682 in November to 553 in January, but from January to July climbed back up to 555. The wholesale trade, six employers represented, showed a slight gain in each survey, increasing from 118 in November to 132 in July. Three employers in the quarrying industry have fluctuated somewhat in their number of workers but showed a net increase from 578 in November to 628 in July.

The greatest fluctuation was in the construction trade where three employers had 286 workers in November, dropped to 194 in March (a decrease of 32 per cent) but climbed back to 402 in July, an increase of 41 per cent from November of 107 per cent from March.

Transportation and utilities, in which seven employers reported, showed their lowest payroll in January with a total of 2356, rose to 2708 in May, then dropped to 2565 in July, which is a loss of 143 workers for the May-July period but still 68 above the November figure. Though there have been a few instances of marked fluctuations with individual employers, the 26 employers engaged in various types of manufacturing, collectively increased their payroll from 14,777 in November to 15,173 in July, showing an increase in every survey except in March when they had 10 fewer workers than in January.

Government Agencies
The employees on the payrolls of seven government agencies (local, state and federal) totalled 337 in November, reached a low of 322 in March, and a high of 339 in July. The remaining four employers in the survey were service organizations, such as hospitals, hotels, etc., showed relatively little fluctuation, with a low of 481 workers in January and a high of 525 in July.

A recent count of employment in Lawrence county, exclusive of the 61 employers covered in the bi-monthly survey, found 117 employers each having 10 or more on the payroll with a total employment of 2826, and 157 other employers, each having less than 10 on the payroll with a total of 772. This makes a grand total of 23,958 workers for 335 employers, which is by no means complete since figures have not been obtained from many of the smaller employers. During the 12 month period ending with July the local employment office placed 2217 persons in local jobs and 3001 in out-of-town jobs, or a total of 5218.

The next bi-monthly employment survey will be completed about the end of September, with figures from the same 61 employers being used.

JAP VOLCANO ERUPTS
TOKYO, Aug. 15.—(INS)—Asamayama, an active volcano 85 miles northwest of Tokyo, erupted violently at noon Thursday.

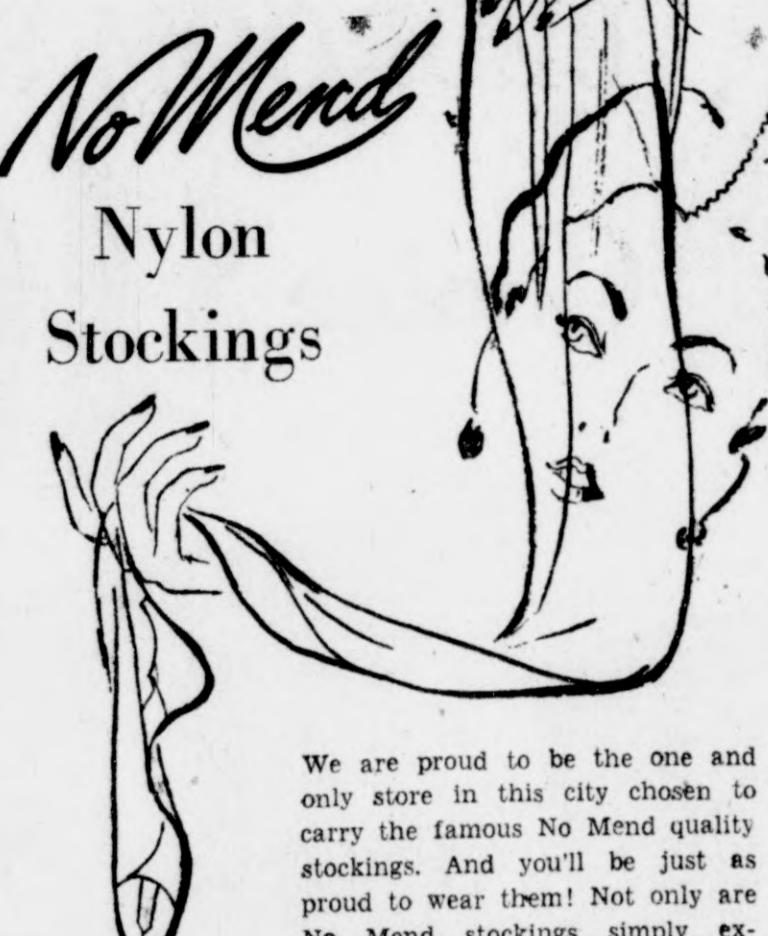

The U. S. army's 43rd weather wing reported the eruption kindled forest fires that were still blazing on the mountain side late this afternoon.

Intensity of Asamayama's upheaval was the greatest ever recorded on the seismograph at Karuizawa.

Babson Finds McLevy Has City Wide Respect

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1947, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 15.—I wanted to visit some typical New England city to learn how its people are feeling. As Bridgeport perhaps suffered most through the depression of the thirties and then—according to Newton's Law of Action and Reaction—prospered most later during World War II, I am writing from here.

Bridgeport is a city of about 150,000 people. These people have had a reputation as being radical and for many years have elected a socialist mayor. He, however, tried hard to be fair and has had the vote of many conservative people. At one time Bridgeport was the only city in New England with a socialistic government.

During the recent war these people prospered greatly. Not only is this a large center for small machinery and tools of all kinds, but it makes guns and ammunition even in peace times. Hence, it was and is a war city. The conversion to peace time products was difficult and much unemployment was forecasted for 1946 and 1947, but this has not come about. Bridgeport continues to be prosperous. Certainly if this applies to Bridgeport, it should apply to most manufacturing centers in New England and elsewhere.

What About Business?

The truth is that the entire United States—as President Truman has recently pointed out—is at an all-time high. We have more employment and greater sales today than ever before in our history. The only disappointed people seem to be those of some summer resorts who had planned on a record year which has not occurred. Too many people seem to be economizing during vacations. They take only a twenty-dollar bill and one suit of clothes and change neither during the trip! This, however, is not a bad sign. These people are saving money for something which will last longer and perhaps give them a little vacation each day of the year.

When the stock market was at a low ebb—some months ago—many readers criticised me for being too optimistic during the early months of 1947. They felt that my forecasts for a "good 1947" would be wrong. Each month, however, has confirmed my optimism. The stock market is now at the highest point of the year. Investors who cashed in half of their profits did a safe thing; but the "smart ones" who sold everything are now disappointed bears.

A Bridgeport Story

A Bridgeport socialist, who knew that the United States money in circulation had tripled from $8,000,000 in 1940 to over $24,000,000 today, asked a local banker: "Why am I not three times as rich as I was seven years ago?" This interested the banker enough to take a Gallup Poll of the next 100 women leaving his savings bank. He asked each woman how much money she usually carried in her pocketbook before World War II. These women usually replied "About four or five dollars." He then asked them to count how much money they now had as they left the bank after making their weekly deposit. He found that all of the women of Bridgeport were averaging 12 to 15 dollars in their pockets—or three times what they formerly carried.

But why do these people vote the socialist ticket? The answer is because Bridgeport has an honest Mayor Jasper Levy, who leads the Socialist party by one who truly loves the people. He looks at every boy and girl as if it were his own boy.

BEATHES there a man with soul so dead he doesn't relish a little open admiration from the sidewalk?

Can you name us a male, modest though he otherwise be, who fails to get a secret bang out of public appearances with a creation as gorgeous as this one?

Well, you need only take charge of this beauty for a while to see how much, much more it does for you than flatter your masculine ego.

Touch off the eager power in its eight big Fireball cylinders and see how your pulses start pounding.

or girl. He has a heart, generous with the poor, enforcing the laws and especially protecting youth. He is more than mayor of the city; he is truly the loving father of the city and all its people. Let us not think only of money when people talk Socialism. There are many things much more important than money by which cities and people should be judged.

Looking Ahead

I continue to be optimistic for the many "Bridgeports" in the United States, although sometimes there will be a day of reckoning for all unless we think more of other people and get out of debt. The next panic will come suddenly "like a bolt from the blue". Although our domestic situation is good, the foreign situation is very bad. There are no prosperous "Bridgeports" in Europe. Communism is very different from Socialism.

The United States now has plant capacity to produce more than a million long tons of synthetic rubber annually.

RYEGRASS GROWS BEST COVER CROP IN GARDEN

For best production, the home garden needs organic matter to give the soil better physical condition and water-holding capacity.

Only sources of organic matter are manure and cover crops. Manure is often full of weed seeds and generally unobtainable, but a good cover crop can be grown every year.

It will build soil organic matter and not interfere with efficient and maximum production of vegetables.

A good cover crop also prevents winter washing of the soil and the leaching of soluble plant food. In addition, the garden looks better during the idle months if covered with a green blanket.

Extension agronomists and vegetable gardening specialists of the Pennsylvania State College have found domestic ryegrass to be the cheapest, surest and most satisfactory cover crop. It stays green all winter and makes most of its growth in fall and spring when the garden is not in use. It fills the soil with fibrous roots which are the best form of organic matter, supplying as much as a light application of manure. It does not get too tall before plowing or spading as does ryegrass.

Ryegrass may be broadcast from July 15 to early September at the rate of one pound to 1,000 square feet either before the last cultivation of late-harvested crops or after the removal of early-harvested crops. The seeds should be worked in lightly where possible, but this is not essential.

Elmer Newton, postmaster here since March 11, 1936, who has tendered his resignation July 1 as postmaster and asked that a successor be appointed not later than September 1, has not yet been informed who the successor will be.

Weitz Writes Of Trip Abroad

Seventh Ward Boy Tells Of Trip Across And Of Arrival In Antwerp August 2

TOURS KEEP BOYS BUSY ON ARRIVAL

In a letter to his parents, Bill Weitz, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 5, who with John Brinton, left last month for the World Boy Scout Jamboree in Paris, France, tells of some of the many events which have packed the lives of the boys since their departure and arrival in Antwerp.

The letter was received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Weitz, of 102 West Madison avenue, Monday.

The letter, which was started on July 25, at sea, was not picked up enroute across, and so was not mailed until after the boat docked in Antwerp on Saturday, August 2.

He told of their activities in Camp Kilmer, where they were organized as the American Contingent. They made the commander of the camp honorary scoutmaster of their troop, No. 26, which is composed of 22 boys from Virginia, Maryland, Washington, D. C., and Pennsylvania. Their stay was pleasant and the army went "all out" for them, Bill relates.

They visited New York City, and went to the mayor's office, where they were greeted by the president of council in the absence of the mayor, who was away at the time. In Troop 26, he stated, are two boys who have the two pens President Truman used in signing the executive order making the Troopship USAT General Muir, available to carry the boys across. They plan to make President Truman an honorary member of the Troop on its return from France, he states.

Because of the zealousness of the troop, the Army Signal Corps has assigned a photographer to them, and will make 35 MM. films of their activities. Bill has already shot several reels of films, from Camp Hart and Camp Kilmer, which he is sending home, and which should be received in a few days.

The boys were bunked aboard ship just the same as army personnel, and there was a great grinding of cameras, playing of bands, etc., when the ship departed from New York Harbor.

The trip was an eventful one he writes, with plenty of activities to keep them busy, such as standing security watch, boat drills, movies, etc. On Thursday, July 31, the ship received an SOS from another boat a hundred miles back, and turned around, losing half a day in arriving in Antwerp to pick up the captain of this ship, who was sick, and to return three French stowaways.

The boys have been so busy since arriving on August 2, with tours, that they have had little time to write, he states, but he hopes to be able to find time on arrival at the Jamboree Camp. His address is 7-B No. 26, Jamboree, France.

229th Crowding Much Into Stay At Indiantown

Battalion Kept Busy As Maneuvers Intensify;
Officers Meet
Strickler

UNIT CITATION TO BE HIGHLIGHT

By CAPT. EUGENE KIRKER
INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Aug. 15.—Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. all of the officers, approximately 500, of the present "Guard" assembled at War Department theatre No. 1 to be introduced to Lt. Governor, General Daniel B. Strickler, and to receive some very timely comments.

After this meeting, the offices were convened about the post on a "Cook's Tour" to completely orient the new men with all the outstanding features and landmarks of the Military Reservation. The men were convoyed through all of the 15 or 20 major areas of the post. All headquarters buildings, service clubs, post chapels, rifle ranges, pistol ranges, the large recreational park and lake, and Governor Duff's summer home, located at the extreme west end of the post were pointed out.

The large artillery range is located between Blue mountain and Second mountain. The "boys" of the 229th have been working long and hard under the expert artillery instruction of Major Edward G. Eakin and from all indications they are quite confident that they will be able to carry home several firing honors when they compete on the range next Tuesday.

Incidentally, Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, which lies just south of the Blue mountain range is named for a distant gap in this mountain which can be readily seen from all positions on the post. During the early history of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania a large Indian town was located in this gap. Many of the remains can still be seen. It is through this mountain gap that the "boys" of the 229th pass getting to and from the Post's famous artillery range.

Field Instruction

Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday mornings all batteries of the 229th Field Artillery Battalion were given field instruction by War department officers in map reading, combat tactics against armored vehicle, the tactical use of small arms weapons, how to distinguish between enemy and friendly aircraft, and similar phases of troop training.

During the afternoons all batteries of the 229th attended various technical schools relative to a thorough knowledge of the various artillery pieces. In general, the schedule for the remainder of the encampment is similar to the above.

"Muster" which took place Tuesday from 7:00 to 7:30 p.m. presented a very interesting and striking picture. The entire 229th Battalion formed in battalion front at their headquarters. Former local servicemen will readily understand the importance of this function. With a ten pace interval between the front and rear ranks each man takes three snappy paces forward and answers "here" when the mustering officer calls his name. This muster was for payroll purposes, so if there was no answer "here" then there will be no pay for that particular man.

The men really looked good in their clean, neat tan uniforms. Working out all the details of the payroll muster has kept Lt. Col. Mitchell and his staff as busy as bees the past few days.

Have Picture Taken

After muster each separate battery of the battalion had a group picture taken, so the "boys" will have an opportunity to take home a nice photograph of their unit. After the pictures were taken the men were given an opportunity to go swimming, to a post theatre, to Harrisburg, Hershey, Lebanon, or other nearby cities for a bit of recreation.

Sunday afternoon, August 17, 1947, the entire 229th Infantry division will formally pass in review for Governor Duff, U. S. Senator Martin and many other state and national dignitaries.

It will be at this review parade that your own local 229th Field Infantry Battalion will be signally honored by receiving a unit citation from representatives of the U. S. War department.

NICE RAIN IN THE WARD

Thursday afternoon, little before 1:45, it commenced raining in the ward, and there was a very welcome rain for about an hour. The trees bent low in the breezes, and soon after the rain was over, young folks returned to continue their game of ball. Up in the city, just a few drops of rain fell. Frank B. Jones of Neshamkin boulevard returning from Wampum reported that parts of that town had no rain.

Yanks-Red Sox Start Series

Boston Needs Three In Row From Yanks To Stay In Race, Pirates Edge Cards

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Custer's last stand will be re-enacted starting at Yankee stadium tonight when the Boston Red Sox begin a three-game series with the New York Yankees.

The second-place Sox, trailing the Yanks by 1½ games, must make a clean sweep of the series to retain the ghost of a chance to overhaul the leaders.

One break for the Bosox is that New York's two outstanding stars, rookie pitcher Spec Shea and the veteran outfielder Joe DiMaggio, are in no shape for full-time duty.

Rookie Al Clark, subbing for DiMaggio, filled the Clipper's shoes ably yesterday by whacking two doubles as the Yanks downed the Athletics, 8 to 5. Allie Reynolds, the winning hurler, became the first American league pitcher to win 15 games this year.

In the National league the Brooklyn Dodgers made it two straight over Boston, which is a winning streak for them in these parlous days. Vic Lombardi bested Warren Spahn 1 to 0 in a duel of southpaws.

Pirates Beat Cards
The Dodgers, after fading steadily since they took three straight from the Cards in St. Louis, gained ground for the second consecutive day. They now hold a lead of 4½ games over the Red Birds, who were tripped up by foxy Fritz Ostermueller, 5 to 3.

Old Fritz, who specializes in tripping up both St. Louis and Brooklyn at critical moments, obtained quick revenge on the Red Birds who recently beat him for the first time this season. Ralph Kiner the Pittsburgh strong boy, ruined Murry

Dickson in the first inning by clouting his 30th homer of the season, with two men on base.

Phils Trim Giants

Deficient base running and errors caused the fast-fading New York Giants to lose their third straight to the Phillies, 6 to 5.

In the only game played, Stubby Overmire of the Detroit Tigers held the St. Louis Browns to four hits and blanketed them 7 to 0 under the arc lights.

Washington County Man Faces Trial Later For Alleged Theft At Burgettstown

OTHER NEWS OF COURT HOUSE HILL

Patrick J. Morgan, whose address is given as R. D. 2, New Wilmington, but who is said to have come from Washington county, who was apprehended by city police in the act of stealing a car here in New Castle a few days ago, was before the court for sentence on the charge yesterday, and got not less than three or more than six months in the Allegheny County workhouse.

Morgan was said to have been wanted on a similar charge in Washington county, where he is alleged by state police to have stolen a car there on May 8, 1947, and to have driven it to this vicinity. It was found abandoned in New Wilmington, where it is said to have stood around for some time before it was reported to the authorities and identified as the stolen vehicle.

A detainer has been filed upon him with the warden of the workhouse and when his sentence expires, he will be taken to Washington county to face charges there.

HAT DOESN'T HALT CUPID
The terrific heat of the past few days has failed to affect the activities of Dan Cupid, and there are still as many marriage licenses being issued daily as during the month of June before the war, it would seem.

During the month of August, 76 licenses have been issued at the court house, an average of around six a day.
